

Dear FCC:I strongly oppose any limitations put on any media attempting to provide a service to the general public. As far as limiting Satellite Radio from providing local content, especially instant traffic and weather alerts, I feel is not in the public's best interest.

Just because a few people (the NAB) feel they are being challenged does not make it right for them to lobby Congress or the FCC to put limitations on the competition.

We Satellite Radio subscribers pay a fee to listen to quality radio with a premium sound. That does not mean that we should not have access to information that is extremely important to us. Knowing what the weather is going to be like, especially if there is severe weather approaching, is important to everyone.

I urge the FCC to not impose any restrictions on Satellite Radio. Instead the FCC should be telling the NAB to stop whining and get it's act together and start providing the services the public wants.

Sincerely,
Brent D. Leister
